PRIVACY / REGULATORY LANDSCAPE

- The privacy landscape is informed by each country's historical and cultural experience.
- The scope of regulations varies.
- The digital age has complicated privacy issues / problems:

- Insecurity
- Appropriation
- Distortion
- Induced Disclosure
- Re-identification
- Stigmatization
- Surveillance

- Unanticipated Revelation
- Unwarranted Restriction
- Dignity Loss
- Discrimination
- Economic Loss
- Loss of Self Determination
- Loss of Trust

VARYING SCOPE OF REGULATIONS

- Differing Definitions – covered data, covered individuals
- Territorial Scope – extraterritorial applications, cross-border transfers, data localization requirements
- Responsibilities related to collection, processing, governance, record-keeping, and minimization.
- Individual Rights – access, portability, deletion, etc.
- Data Security – protection of confidentiality, integrity, availability and resilience, processes for testing and monitoring effectiveness of security controls.
- Data breach notification and cooperation with regulators.
- Remedies, liabilities, and penalties – administrative fines, statutory penalties, private rights of action, criminal liability.
